4. The Party and Political Training Center of the university was organized as follows:
- a. Director - JAO Chang-feng (饒彰風)
  - b. Vice-Director - LI Fan-fu (李凡夫)
  - c. Dean - CH'LEN Chun-pa (錢君霸)
  - d. Political Commissar - CHUNG Shih-ku (鍾式谷)
5. The training period lasted six months. The students of the center were divided into seven groups, each of about 150 men, as follows: training (訓練組), propaganda (宣傳組), organization (組織組), cultural (文化組), party history (黨史組), investigation (調查組), and examination (審核組).
6. This Party and Political Training Center gave training to members of the Chinese Communist party to fit them for service at various local party headquarters. It was quite different from the Party Youths' Cadres Training Center ( ) which trained young men who had newly joined the party for service in the various local Youth Corps.
7. The Kwangtung Revolutionary Cadres School (廣東革命幹部學校) was organized as follows:
- a. Principal - YEH Chien-ying (葉劍英)
  - b. Assistant Principal - TS'ENG Sheng (曾生)
  - c. Chief Instructor - LIN P'ing (林平)
  - d. Political Director - CHU Kuang (朱光)

  - h. Chief of General Affairs Department (總務處長) - CHU Hsueh-t'ing (朱學亭)
8. This school gave elementary courses in military training and political science. There was a preparatory training period of three months followed by the regular course of one year. The 2,000 students were largely from Communist guerrilla cadres. More importance was attached to political than military training, so the students were not divided into military and political groups with different courses, but just into two regiments (總隊).
